

REPORT ON 64th NATIONAL PHARMACY WEEK CELEBRATION

The Department of Pharmaceutics, Sachdeva College of Pharmacy, Gharuan, successfully organized the 64th National Pharmacy Week (NPW) celebration on 21st November 2025 with the theme “Pharmacist: Transforming Patient Care Through Advanced Pharmacy Practice.” The event was conducted under the guidance of respected faculty members and witnessed active participation from students of B.Pharm and D.Pharm.

The program began with a warm welcome and introduction by the faculty, followed by a brief address highlighting the significance of National Pharmacy Week and the evolving role of pharmacists in healthcare systems globally. The objective of the celebration was to create awareness about pharmaceutical ethics, clinical responsibilities, and the importance of pharmacists in patient counseling and medication safety.

All students took the Pharmacy Oath, pledging dedication to ethical professional practice and patient care.

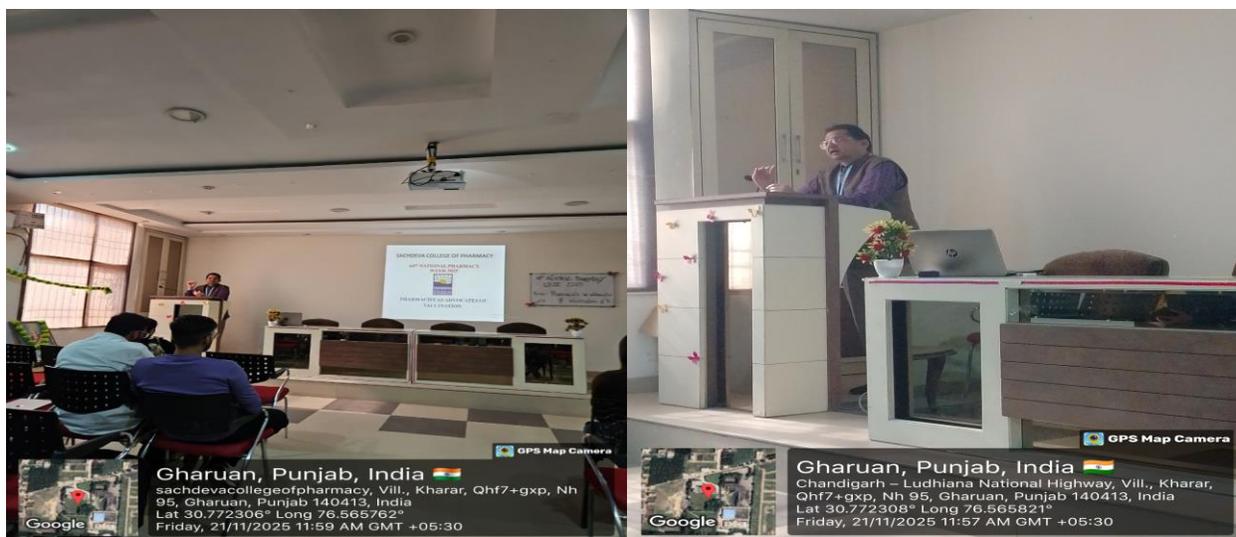

One of the major highlights of the event was the enthusiastic participation of students in various academic activities. Students presented PowerPoint presentations on diverse topics such as pharmacist as advocate of vaccination and intelligence in healthcare, and the responsibilities of pharmacy professionals. Presentation reflected excellent preparation, confidence and subject knowledge. The judging panel appreciated the clarity, scientific relevance, and communication skills of the participants..

Along with presentations, a Poster making Competition was also organized. Students displayed creative and informative posters showcasing themes related to drug safety, diabetes awareness, vaccination importance, and the role of community pharmacists. The posters were visually appealing, well-researched, and demonstrated scientific understanding blended with creativity. The faculty acknowledged the efforts and discipline of the students in preparing high-quality academic content.

Towards the end of the program, the respected Principal Sir delivered an inspiring speech appreciating the efforts of faculty and students for making the celebration successful. He motivated students to uphold professional values, continue learning, and contribute to the healthcare system with dedication and integrity

The event concluded with a formal Vote of Thanks proposed by HOD of the department, who expressed gratitude to the management, principal, organizing committee, faculty members, supporting staff, and students for their contribution and active participation in making the event meaningful and successful.

The celebration of the 64th National Pharmacy Week proved to be an educational, motivating, and memorable experience for all participants and reinforced the importance of the pharmacy profession in improving public health and patient care.
